

Internet services: Ensure perfect connectivity for your tradeshow stand

State-of-the-art communications technology is a key contributor to your tradeshow success, so you'll want to take advantage of our new and enhanced products to get your stand connected the right way. We can provide you with a best-fit solution for your stand, whatever size it might be. Just contact us for a tailored offer.

Your advantages

Take advantage of our new Wi-Fi products in perfect quality in the 5 GHz bandwidth range for as low as €199 – usable anywhere on the exhibition site, data flat rate included.

Or decide in favor of our high-performance, wired products, including data flat rate and symmetrical bandwidths, to match all your needs.

Free installation as well as service, from the first day of assembly to the last day of takedown, are part of our services, and of course are already included in the price.

Take advantage of our reliable Internet access anywhere on the exhibition grounds.

Choose however many devices you need to benefit from our data flat rate and symmetrical bandwidths.

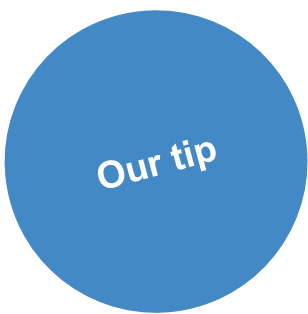

“We have exhibited at CEBIT from the very beginning and we always order our IT and telecommunication services from Deutsche Messe. The DSL connection has become the most important service at our stand, and the Internet has always run smoothly. It’s a basic service for us, since we would otherwise be unable to present our products.”

Stand security: Get extra protection

Deutsche Messe AG has some of the highest security standards in the world. In spite of this, an element of risk remains – one that increases when the trade fair has closed for the day but the halls remain open. Put your trust in our trained security staff and safeguard your exhibits and equipment during the show, as well as extra security when your stand is being assembled and dismantled.
